

GLOBAL GEOPOLITICAL CHAOS

*Lieutenant-General (Ret.) Associate Professor Constantin MINCU, PhD**

Abstract: The author considers the topic of this article to be significant for the public interest and highly important for Romania, as well as for the Member States of NATO and/or the European Union.

In the late five years, the political evolution produced on the world scene mainly by the great powers (US, Russia, and China) and some emergent powers (Turkey, Iran, Brazil or others) have acquired real potential to endanger the global peace, including the security of European countries, EU member or non-member states.

In this intricate and fluid context, Romania has to be very careful and focused to counteract, along with its Allies, the risks and threats coming from such state actors with obvious aggressive posture.

Keywords: United States of America, the European Union, geopolitical chaos, Asia, Europe, South America, North America.

In the last decade, views expressed by politicians, politico-military analysts, economists, technology specialists, financiers, etc., regarding the meaning of world development, the dangers that may occur in the short, medium and long term in the life of the planet have been made public. These views have been and are expressed in treaties, encyclopedias, in-depth studies, books and articles published in foreign policy and geopolitical journals, mainly in countries with relevant economic and military potential on a global or regional scale.

It is quite easy to see that there are major differences in addressing the complex issues regarding the current major trends - geopolitical, technological, demographic, cultural, military, etc., globally and in different regions of the world, with chronic problems in terms of asserting and
